Dear Siblings in Christ,

Happy Summer! We are now past the summer solstice and I pray we all have a safe and good summer, with not too many wildfires or other shenanigans. As you know our church property can get very dry during the summer, so please be sure to be mindful when on the property and keep your eyes peeled for anything that looks like burning or smoke. We have already had one small fire that was called in by a preschool parent in June. Other things to pay attention to---check out just how much our micro nursery trees have grown by the labyrinth and also take a walk on the labyrinth as it has been lovingly restored by Wenden and Bob. And after that, swing back around the back of the parsonage and see how our summer veggies are growing. It's a sharing garden, so if you see something ripe, enjoy!

Beyond me saying I will be taking some time off this month for rest and renewal (and house projects), I wanted to make sure you are introduced to our new church historian, Jennifer Willner and for you to read the piece that she has written below. Blessings to you all this month of July!

Rev. Amy

Hello everyone, I'm Jennifer Willner, a new NPUCC member and now the Historian! I volunteered for this position to learn more about NPUCC: how it started, where it's been and who we are now as a church. My goal is to prepare a document, or PowerPoint, that tells our story, in images and texts. Then I'll go about organizing all the photos I'm told exist! I'll need everyone's help identifying who is who and the occasion of the photo. If you have pictures, please first identify the people and the occasion before sending them to me. This will help me immensely.

Thank you all for providing my very first church membership community. Please email me at historian@npucc.org. Blessings!

Bursting with Peacock Feathers!

I'm so proud of the volunteer's who staffed the booth at this years Burien Pride Festival I'm strutting my feathers! It is such a fun and positive event that we get to do the work of our church on the streets of Burien. Steve and Cindy did such a great job of setting everything up early in the morning and then the rest of us just kept coming, always on time with a smile on our face. We had prizes galore people were able to win with the spin of our new prize wheel, and if it didn't quite land on what they wanted, we were pretty flexible with that. Good conversations were had with those of us who worked the booth and with celebration participants. As far as I know, we were the only church represented that day and I am personally proud of our church "walking the walk" with this. By the end of the day things were a little wet and the weather was cool and I really appreciate Rob, Max, Shannon, & Pastor Amy for helping to put everything away until next year. Think about joining us next year, fun and inspiration promised. Nancy Allen

AUTHENTIC SELVES

If you may recall, Saltwater Unitarian Universalist Church facilitated a UU common read using Authentic Selves: Celebrating Trans and Nonbinary People and Their Families. I signed up to attend (along with Pastor Amy, Shannon, and Connie) because I always want to learn more about those different than myself (a primary reason that I've traveled around the world), not knowing shortly after the study started that I would have a loved one come out as trans... you never know when something that you are learning can mean so much! The Zoom studies had us look at our own stories to better understand theirs. I just finished reading this book of personal stories from thirty-five individuals plus in some cases from their parents, siblings, children, partners, and chosen family. I want to share my book with you, if you'd like to borrow it, so you can read their stories as well. It is also available at the King County Library. Think "National Geographic" in the feel of the paper and the quality of the photography. ~Lynn
